For the last two years not including the last three months of the present year, the result of this year cannot be known, but there is no question it, will exceed a-million of barrels. Last year there was imported into this city upward of ur millions of bushels of grain, this year there will probably be more. It is calculated that the summed of Bread stuffs wanted for the eastern States will be sensibly diffinished. The demand from the West Indies and South America ca will, in consequence of the short supplies in Europe, fully make up any short demand from other quarters. Our article, it will be seen, is principally composed of western supplies from the canal. It is very difficult, in fact impossible, to make up any correct table of the supplies influence to appress the poor, who are, in every from the mills on the North river. From the south or from New Orleans, as the best criterion of these eviplies, we give the following table. As the flour consumed in the city is not required to be inspected, this may be added to the table. The city consumption is computed at 1000 barrels per day, which for 305 days, is 305,000 Darreis.

The following is the inspection of Flour for

The operations in Flour in this city are immense, being over a million and a half of barrels, which at eight dollars a barrel will amount to twelve-inillians of dollars. - We propose to give the general course of this trade and the manner of doing business with the west.

The principal mills are at Rochester, and haveincreased to an automishing extent, not only at Rochester, but at Blank Rock, Orange, Seneca Falls and at various other places. Men of large capitals are embarked in the business. New York, which formerly supplied all, or nearly all the wheat manufacturers, now only supplies her quota. Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Michigan, furnish a very large portion of the wheat that is manufactured.

The quantity received this season will be overa million of Bille I'm pirchase wheat for ter than even those engaged in the business, rich as they are, are enabled to supply. The purchase of wheat, the sale of the flour, and the is accomplished mainly in this way." Time with lers first select their agent in New York with whom they make arrangements for the raising of money. This is done by placing in the hands of the agent ample security, by mortgages on mills and personal security; a credit is thus ea-tablished for fifty or a hundred thousand dollars Upon, at usnally 60 of 90 days, and this before a bushel of wheat is prchared or a parrel of flour of the diamer, and the banks, mostly at Rochesdiscount these drafts. Their bank notes are reoccued, with which the purchases of wheat are made by agents at different points in New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Michigan. The brake are benefited by the chapitation of their bills. The miller obtains his wheat, the ganals, than the miller and commission merchants are all benefited, and the consumer is not injured.
